Chairman T. C. Ruffin, of Henrico, and Messrs. L. F. Barnes, of New Kent; R. L. Spencer, of the city of Williamsburg; H. L. Stephenson, of James City, and R. B. Davis, of Charles City, have fixed August 22d as the date of the primary of the Thirty-sixth Senatorial District.

There are two candidates for the senatorship from this district. Judge T. Ashby Wickham, for many years Judge of the County Court of Henrico, is being opposed by Mr. Thomas W. Gardner, a former member of the Legislature.

The announcement of the date of the primary created no little interest among the citizens and already both candidates are working among the people.

Mr. Walter Christian, clerk of the Hustings Court, announces that all candidates for Mr. Davis' seat, must, on or before the date of the primary, submit a statement of the cost of their campaign, whether they are successful or suffered defeat. The accounts should be made out in duplicate, sending one copy to Chairman Doherty, of the City Democratic Committee, and the other to Clerk Christian, at the Hustings Court.

Within thirty days, the accounts must be filed.

Liquor Men to Appear.

Friday night, June 30th, has been set for the liquor men to appear before the Committee on Ordinances and Charters, and express their views on the closing ordinance offered by Mr. Davis' Committee. The committee requests the daily papers to copy this notice so that all will know the time of the meeting.

Captain Allen Here.

Captain E. C. Allen, the Southern representative of the White Stone Lithia Springs Company, North Carolina, one of the leading resorts of the South, is in Richmond for a few days.

STRANGE STORY OF WM. H. WYATT

This Clever Policeman "Kicked Upstairs" By His Enemies.

ALL CLASSES VOTED FOR HIM

His Friends to Help Him, Others to Get Rid of Him.

Of all of those nominated by Tuesday's primary none has caused so much talk as William H. Wyatt, Jr., who defeated Mr. Garrison for the office of high constable.

Mr. Wyatt two years ago was comparatively unknown, and if any one at that time had said that he would ever be high constable of Richmond that person would have been laughed at. As a member of the police force he had done his work well, but there had been nothing in his service to mark him for promotion, and he was not above the other men on the force.

Two years ago the nominee came boldly to the front and since that time has stood in the glare of public notice. Gambling was rife and gambling dens were wide open. They were as well known as any public resort, and so he took little pains to conceal their unlawful business. Visitors to the city were directed to the roulette and faro layouts as openly as to the theatres, and citizens walking the streets could almost hear the rattle of chips and the whirl of the wheel.

This state of affairs went on as it were under the eyes of the authorities. It was said that the gamblers boasted that they had free hand to do as they pleased, and that the "protection" was so well known that no one dared to disturb their business.

Like a thunderbolt Officer Wyatt came down on the badmannered and sporting fraternity and after a bitter fight routed and drove them from the community.

Way Often Blocked.

The story of the fight is known to every one, and it is known that Wyatt had no easy task. Every obstacle was thrown in his way and every attempt was made to block his pursuit of the law-breakers. Not until he had furnished the Commonwealth's attorney with the names of hundreds of citizens of Richmond who were in the habit of frequenting gambling houses did the authorities wake up to the fact that he was in earnest, and that they must either choose for decency and right or take their stand for lawlessness and corruption. Warrants were sworn out and some of the best known people of the city had to appear to answer the charge of gambling. The gamblers could stand a fight, but they could not live where their patrons were frightened away, and so the end came quickly with victory for Wyatt all down the line.

It was thought that the police board would have rewarded his service, but they did nothing for him, although later he battled again for the observance of the Sunday laws against the worst element of saloon keepers.

Wyatt has been known for two years as the reformer, the civic Martin Luther of Richmond, and his nomination on Tuesday was the mark of approval that the people felt was only his due.

Not the least strange part of his success was the nature of the support that rallied to him.

The good citizens voted for him for the good he had accomplished in the community, and his friends worked for him because they liked the man, but a host of his enemies worked quite as hard to have him elected.

The gamblers, the liquor men, the evil element of the city labored early and late to promote him out of the police force and into an office where he would be unable to interfere with their practices and pastimes.

It was a singular condition of affairs that linked the good and the evil elements together to bring about an end for which both strove with a different purpose.

It is said that Wyatt was unpopular with his associates and with the Police Board, and that they, too, did all in their power to have him elected. Every one is pleased—the decent element because they think a good man has secured his reward; the lawless crowd, because they imagine, though doubtless vainly, that the door is again wide open and that they may return to their old pursuits.

Since the primary Mr. Wyatt has been desperately ill, and it was said that he would not survive. He has been permitted to see or congratulate him. Dr. Nuckolls, his physician, has been with him continually. He states that his patient has been wildly delirious, and that he is not so well as he had been.

"He will certainly not be out for four or five weeks," said Dr. Nuckolls.

Popular Young Man.

Mr. Minnie Folkes, like Mr. Wyatt, is new to public life, for until this last primary he had not offered himself for preferment.

The nominee for the office of Commonwealth's attorney, although only thirty-five years of age, has had considerable experience in the courts of this city, and especially in criminal practice. He was educated in the law first in the offices of Judge W. W. Crump and later at the law school of Richmond College, where he graduated, taking the degree of B. L.

Mr. Folkes and his friends are highly gratified by the flattering vote that was cast for him, and they are the more pleased at his victory over such an array of able lawyers as offered themselves for the office.

Mr. Folkes' success was due in no small degree to the able management of his brother, Hon. E. C. Folkes, who directed his campaign.

It is said by his friends that should the occasion arise, Mr. Folkes will stand as firm as did he who has honored a similar name by his conduct as the city attorney of St. Louis, against the boodle ring of that city. Mr. Folkes said last night:

"I am deeply grateful to all my friends for their loyalty and staunch support on Tuesday."

Self-Made Man.

Mr. Ordway Puller, one of the nominees for the House of Delegates, is another new to public life. Educated in the public schools of the city, he began the study of law in the offices of Messrs. S. S. and Hyman, and later under Messrs. H. H. Pollard and Conway R. Farns. He was admitted to the bar in 1896, and since that time has built up a good practice. For the last six years he has served as a member of the City Democratic Committee.

Mr. Eugene C. Massey had not until now run for office, and his appearance amongst the candidates is accounted for by his desire to have the "Torrens system" adopted by the Legislature. His active interest on the floor of the House of Delegates will no doubt carry the plan through, while his knowledge of law and affairs will make him a man of influence in the Legislature.

New to the Public Eye.

Mr. Robert E. Peyton, Jr., nominee for the House of Delegates, has been for some years a member of the City Democratic Committee, but has not held office. He is a lawyer of note, having been associated with the firm of Smith, Moncreau and Gordon. Judge Witt is his uncle.

General Anderson, nominee for the Senate; Hon. Harry C. Glenn, who led the ticket for the House of Delegates; Hon. B. P. Cox, who was re-elected to the House of Delegates; Mr. Edward J. Warren, re-elected auditor; Captain Frank W. Cunningham, the ever popular city collector, who led the whole ticket; and Mr. James C. Smith, city sergeant, are too well known to have a mere word said about them. They have all served the city faithfully, and are well known as good and faithful servants.

BENDER WILL FIGHT.

Likely to Resist to the Fullest Extent the Ousting Powers.

If any one has the idea that Mr. George Bender, erstwhile manager and owner of the Richmond base-ball nine, is taking his "outing" quietly, a great mistake is being made, for there is every indication at this time of a serious tilt between the present owner of the franchise and the man who handled the team at first. This tilt is likely to occur on to-morrow when the game between the Browns and the Richmond nine is scheduled. Mr. Bender maintains that he was not in the base-ball business for the money that he received from the games, but it was amusement with him. He alleges that the proceedings which took his franchise away were not legal. It is certain that he will fight the proposition of giving the franchise to another person and this fight may terminate at the very first game to be played.

ABSENT MANY YEARS.

Mr. Charles Dunston, Formerly of Chesterfield, Dies in Norfolk.

Mr. Charles Dunston, brother of Mr. John Dunston, and half brother of Captain Blankenship, superintendent of schools of Chesterfield county, died recently at his home near Norfolk. The remains were brought to Petersburg and interred in Blandford Cemetery. For more than twenty years neither Mr. Dunston nor Mr. Blankenship had heard from the deceased. He left Chesterfield county almost a quarter of a century ago and for a time his whereabouts may have been unknown. At first some believed that he had been drowned in James River.

Assault on Step-Daughter. Samuel Kins, a negro man, was arrested yesterday by Constable C. O. Burch, of Henrico county, upon the charge of criminal assault upon his step-daughter. The negro lives near John Allen, and when the warrant was sworn out by the mother of the little negro girl, Constable Burch went in search for the assailant. The negro was found near his home, and at first offered resistance. He was soon made to know that this would do him no good. Mr. Burch had no handcuffs with him at the time, and used a rope to tie the negro's hands. He will be tried to-day.

President's Bath Tub.

TORPEDO BOAT'S STERN SMASHED

Naval Collier Caesar With Eclipse Instruments for Africa.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH

See Secretary Taft About the Norfolk-Berkeley Cantilever Bridge.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NORFOLK, VA., June 22.—The torpedo boat Porter was driven by the wind and the tide against the gunboat Siren at the navy-yard last night with the effect of crushing her stern. She will be repaired at once so as to be ready to leave with the torpedo flotilla which has just been placed in commission. The Siren escaped injury.

The naval collier Caesar having aboard wireless telegraph instruments and other apparatus for the use of the expedition which leaves the United States on the vessels under Rear Admiral Chester's command, to observe in Africa the total eclipse of the sun August 29th, and 30th, and which sailed from New York to join Admiral Chester's fleet, signaled as he passed out the Virginia Capes this afternoon, that he would proceed direct to Gibraltar, asked that this be reported to the naval authorities at Norfolk.

DENTIST ARRANGED.

Dr. A. D. Barrett, a dentist, was arraigned in the Police Court to-day on the complaint of his neighbors that he parades in the hall of the building armed with dental instruments against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth. The case was continued for evidence.

Chief of Police Boush is trying to find the relatives of the young woman who was burned to death yesterday. She was known as Ruth James, but the women in the house where she lived say that she was Birdie O'Donnell, of No. 142 North Twentieth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. They say that she came here with her husband, and that he abandoned her three months ago. Her clothes caught fire from a lamp and she was burned from head to foot.

JUDGE MANN SPEAKING.

He addressed intelligent and interested audiences at both places, and he was given a larger audience at Smithfield than at Norfolk.

THE BRIDGE PROJECT.

S. Heth Tyler, president of the Norfolk Viaduct Company; Senator W. W. Sale and Alan G. Burrow, advocates of the cantilever bridge between Norfolk and Berkeley, addressed this morning from Washington, where they conferred with Secretary Taft as to the government's permission to build a bridge across the Elizabeth River. Secretary Taft declared that he would submit the plans to Captain E. E. Winslow, the United States local engineer in charge here, and he would hear the arguments of the citizens for and against the construction of a bridge and report. Senator Sale says he is confident that the plans for the bridge will be approved.

SCHOOL TAX.

A Poll of the County Shows People Are Willing to Pay.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) GAITHERSBURG, Va., June 22.—The Board of Supervisors for Scott county this week entered an order imposing a special levy of ten cents on the assessed value for public school purposes. The members of the Board have consulted the people and found a strong sentiment in favor of the levy. The purpose is to increase the length of the school terms. This is the first special levy laid on this county for this purpose, and it is the intention to increase the levy next year to at least thirty cents.

Four of the seven districts of Scott county have adopted the "no-fence" law. What is being harvested in this section. While the acreage is under the average, the yield is reported to be excellent and the quality of the grain good.

Caldwell, another grand juror charged with contempt in connection with giving information concerning the evidence upon which a bill of indictment was returned in the H. Glenn Williams case, was discharged.

POTATO DAY.

Fifteen Thousand Bushels Shipped From Cape Charles

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) CAPE CHARLES, VA., June 22.—Yesterday was the banner day so far in the shipment of Irish potatoes from this point. Over 15,000 barrels having been loaded over the wharf between suns. This breaks all previous records in the history of the potato industry of this county. The price continues very low, ranging around 90 cents and $1.00 per barrel for the best stock.

Shaw to Be There.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LYNCHBURG, VA., June 22.—I have learned late last night on excellent authority that Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw has accepted an invitation to be present at the Republican State convention, to be held at Roanoke on August 8th, for the purpose of making an address to the meeting.

A Cruel Man.

"There was a man working for the Richmond Cedar Works, who from time to time was forced by one thing or another to borrow money from the firm in question at a rate of not less than ten per cent. per month. This was borrowed from them eight times and paid into the till of the 'banker' interest regularly, and would often pay on his loans until they were considerably reduced and all wiped out but one. And in all he had paid in excess interest more than enough to pay

Makes a Suggestion.

As the reporter was leaving his office he called: "Why don't some of the papers here start some such movement? It would break up usury much more than it would the courts. But I suppose I shouldn't mind that."

Some of the stories told the reporter in this interview were truly pathetic. Stories holding all the deep heart interest which always attaches to abject poverty struggling for bread to eat. Stories of men who had been driven to buy medicine for their sick babies or food for those who were well. Stories of men out of work, who had no money to get things about the house, and the strange, nearly all borrowers have not only paid back their debt in full, but have made some donation to the cause.
